

Stand by the Standard!

Price's Cream Baking Powder is everywhere the acknowledged standard, the powder of the highest reputation, greatest strength, and absolutely pure. It renders the food more healthful and palatable, and using it exclusively you are assured against alum and other dangerous chemicals from which the low-grade powders are made.

Dr. Price's Baking Powder is sold on its merits only—never by the aid of lotteries, gifts, commissions or other schemes. The entire value of your money comes back to you in baking powder—the purest, most economical made.

NOTE.—Alum baking powders are low priced, as they cost but three cents a pound to make. But alum leaves in the bread or cake glaucous salts, sulphuric acid and hydrate of alumina—all injurious, the last two poisonous.

The story comes from Independence, told by a nurse who had been caught in the act of parloining diamonds that a scheme had been laid to kidnap the baby of Judge Chrisman at whose home she was employed. The object of the kidnapper was ransom money. The story of the woman seems to the INTELLIGENCER to be a little fishy.

Repairing Neatly Done

Never thought of such a sign for a medicine did you? Well, it's a good sign for Scott's Emulsion. The body has to be repaired like other things and Scott's Emulsion is the medicine that does it.

These poor bodies wear out from worry, from over-work, from disease. They get thin and weak. Some of the new ones are not well made—and all of the old ones are racked from long usage.

Scott's Emulsion fixes all kinds. It does the work both inside and out. It makes soft bones hard, thin blood red, weak lungs strong, hollow places full. Only the best materials are used in the patching and the patches don't show through the new glow of health.

No one has to wait his turn. You can do it yourself—you and the bottle.

This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's Emulsion and is on the wrapper of every bottle. Send for free sample. SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl St. New York. 50c. and $1. all druggists.

Wofford a Character.

Judge Wofford of the Kansas City criminal court is a character. After sentencing an aged negro whom he knew well and likes to the county jail for one year for stealing chickens the judge said to the prisoner:

"Did you feel their legs?"

"No, sir," replied the old man in surprise.

"Well, well. You don't know your business. Serves you right for getting into the negro's own field of labor. You ought to have been caught."

"Now, I never stole any chickens myself," the judge continued, "but I lived in the South and I know how it should be done. When you go into the coop, reach up and feel the chickens' legs. Always do that. If they are smooth, put them in your sack, but if they are rough feathered, leave them alone. Rough legged chickens are not much good."

The aged prisoner looked interested and thoughtful. The negroes in the courtroom smiled approvingly and one old dandy with cotton in his wool rocked backward and forward in his chair and the expression on his face seemed to say: "Judge you are all right, and you know what you are talking about."

Davis H. Waite Drops Dead.

Denver, Col., Nov. 27.—Former Governor Davis H. Waite dropped dead from apoplexy in Aspen, Col., this morning. He had no symptoms of disease and his death was totally unexpected. He was 76 years old, a native of Queenstown, N. Y., and a lawyer by profession.

Elected by the populist governor of Colorado in 1895, he served two years and then was defeated for re-election. While governor he called on the state militia on two occasions, once to quell riots of miners in Cripple Creek and once to remove a board of police commissioners that refused to retire when he appointed a new board. The board retired and Governor Waite was sustained by the supreme court of Colorado, whose members were republicans. In the bitter debates of 1893 over the money question, Governor Waite was given wide notoriety as "Bloody Bridges Waite"—a conscienceless newspaper correspondent sent out a report that he had said he proposed to wade in blood to the bridge-bits but he'd have his way, whereas he was really a mild and gentle old man and was guilty only of paraphrasing Patrick Henry. What he really said was that rather than the liberties of the country should perish it were better that men ride in blood to the bridge-bits.

Sol Smith Russell's "A Poor Relation" Company.

Everyone who likes to see a clean, wholesome play full of laughter and some tears should thank the manager for his energy and liberality in securing for an early production Sol Smith Russell's great comedy, "A Poor Relation," which has served to place Mr. Russell on the same plane of popularity as did "Rip Van Winkle" Mr. Jefferson. Manager Fred C. Berger, who has always guided the fortunes of the eminent comedian, re-engaged the supporting company after the latter's recent illness and consequent retirement from the stage for another year, and with Frederick Summerfield, a young actor whose humor is of the quaint, quiet kind that is peculiarly Mr. Russell's own, he proposes to give the play-goers of those towns and cities who have never seen the play a chance to do so. Moreover, the production of "A Poor Relation" will be on the same elaborate scale in every detail of stage equipment that has always characterized Mr. Russell's performance.

Island No. 7.

On Thursday S. L. Bay, special surveyor over at Richmond, filed for record the plat of Island No. 7. This made land contains 1,865.24 acres. In 1820, the date of the first government survey, there was a small island located three miles west of Lexington. It was not an island proper, being attached to Lafayette county by a neck of land. There is a legend that before the island was formed an Indian made a trip to the sunrise side of the river to meet his sweetheart. A rival was waiting with a tomahawk. The Indian's canoe, fastened to an oar shoved in the sand, waiting for the owner, caught the passing drift, and soon a sandbar was started that grew into Island No. 7. Before the civil war the land was cut off from the main land of Lafayette county, and became an island proper, although being attached to that county according to the records. During the past few years the river changed its current and as a result the land has become a part of the main land of Ray county.
